1. Recreation & Parks Commission Water Conservation Update

Mr. Pfalzgraf and Recreation & Parks ('R&P') Commissioners Chair Friedman and Former Chair Rosoff provided an update on conservation efforts. Mr. Pfalzgraf discussed the following: R&P functions; Drip tubing, spray heads, pop-up heads; City's service area; Computerized weather-controlled irrigation system; Climatec's system; Native plants; Future projects; and Maintenance work. The City uses a larger percentage of pop-up sprinklers; grass removal is required for a change out. Fountain water is recirculated and replenished as it evaporates. Private property landscaping permitting is under the purview of Planning (Building & Safety). Sprinklers watering concrete and over-watering can be addressed via increased staffing. The target use reduction is 25-35%; City Council's directive will be followed. The R&P Commission requests information sharing on conservation and asks that PWS staff and/or Commissioners be present at their meetings. Commissioner Wolfe stated overwatering by the City is a large problem and asked what can be done to fix the issue. He mentioned sprinklers watering concrete and overwatering causing overflow and puddles. Commissioner Pressman asked that R&P return to a future Public Works Commission Meeting with an aggressive plan (including replacing all green medians, Greystone water use reduction) outlining what the R&P Department's conservation plans are, a timeline of those plans and a sense of urgency concerning the matter to reduce water to the minimum use possible as quickly as possible. Chair Shalowitz asked if MWD's turf removal rebates could be used to change out medians. He asked about the net water savings from the recent Roxbury Park remodel and if the PWC could assist R&P in water saving endeavors. Commissioner Felsenthal asked about the possibility of using run-off/grey water at Coldwater Canyon Park and the use of native plants and bark instead of grass.
