DESCRIPTION:

803 Alpine Drive

Like its neighbor to the south, this American Colonial Revival dwelling is highly symmetrical in its organization. Its whitewashed brick exterior is capped by a side gable roof. The three bay facade is focused on a central, semicircular portico defined by Ionic columns. An iron-railed balcony tops the denticulated cornice of the portico. The entry is topped by a lunette accented with a keystone and is flanked by open brick screens and by lanterns. Large, multi-paned double-hung sash windows with shutters are in the side bays of the lower story. The upper story bays contain pairs of shuttered windows. Set on an elevated lot, the house appears largely unaltered.
