DESCRIPTION:

The last built, the parking facility reiterates the Colonial Revival styling and proportions of the office buildings. It is brick veneered, with a perforated screen in the center of each elevation. Pilasters define bays which are terminated by a parapeted entablature. Pediments crown the end bays, which contain pedimented entries and circular windows. Bands of shuttered casement windows with iron balconets seem to deny the function of the building. Partially subterranean, the structure is integrated in scale with the residential remainder of the block.
