DESCRIPTION:

333 El Camino:

Partially hidden by banana palms and other shrubbery is a good example of the Spanish Colonial Revival style in the neighborhood. The home exhibits several features of the style, with its smooth stucco facade. The entrance is through the courtyard, housed in the circular tower bay at the apex of the L-shaped plan. A wooden balcony on the second story is reached by French doors. The arched porte cochere continues in a loggia into the courtyard. A small gate punctuates the courtyard wall. Very intact, the residence has slender arched openings in the tower. The main window is capped with a wooden lintel. The tile roof is also common to the style.
