DESCRIPTION:

Luxuriant landscaping enhances the Spanish Colonial Revival design of this stuccoed and tile-roofed home. It is asymmetrically organized, with a two-story front gable wing on the north, a two story hipped roof section in the center, and a one-story, side gable wing on the south. The entry is in the center, is slightly recessed, and contains a panelled and glazed wood door. Other openings on the facade are casement in type and may have been re-glazed. Typical Spanish characteristics include exposed rafters and second story overhangs. No other details are visible through the vines and other plantings.
