Jenny Rogers Named Director of Community Services for the City of Beverly Hills

Beverly Hills, CA (December 3, 2019) – A dynamic leader with a diverse portfolio across the fields of community services, recreation and the arts has been selected as the City’s next Director of Community Services. Jenny Rogers joins Beverly Hills from the City of Mill Valley in Northern California where she has served as Director of Arts & Recreation since 2012. She fills the role vacated by former Director Nancy Hunt-Coffey who was named Assistant City Manager earlier this year.

As Director of Community Services, Rogers will oversee the Department’s Administrative Support, Human Services, Library, and Recreation and Parks divisions. She will also direct the development and implementation of innovative programs to enhance the community cultural, educational, leisure, and library services.

“Beverly Hills is such a special place and I am thrilled to be selected for this incredible opportunity,” said Rogers. “As an artist myself, my passion for my work is personal. I look forward to working with the City Council, incredibly talented City staff, and the community to build upon the world-class legacy Beverly Hills has created with its deep commitment to arts and culture, superior facilities and exceptional programming.”

Rogers has extensive leadership experience with over 25 years as a director, administrator, cultural arts and recreation supervisor, public arts program manager, arts educator and practicing artist.

Prior to her tenure in Mill Valley, Rogers worked for the City & County of San Francisco where she began her career providing human and social services at Boeddeker Park in the Tenderloin District. She later served the Cultural Arts Division (SFRPD) as Cultural Arts Supervisor. Most recently, she played an integral role in the development of the Marin County Arts & Culture Master Plan and was appointed to co-chair its implementation within the County.

Rogers graduated from Brown University Magna Cum Laude with a BA in Art & Semiotics and holds an MFA in Fine Art specializing in Digital & New Media from Pennsylvania State University where she was the first University Fellow for the University's School of Visual Arts.

She will start with the City on January 6th.
