

Awards! at the May 2018 Beverly Hills Art Show

Clovis Blackwell Best of Show and
First Place in Drawing and Printmaking

www.clovisblackwell.com

Clovis Blackwell says, in regard to his eye-popping, colorful art, that he was fascinated with apocalyptic sci-fi as a child. "Images of cave entrances, flowers, and nuclear weapons tests (in the form of mushroom clouds)...aim to generate multiple associations, opening up the appealing possibilities of...the creation in destruction." Clovis lives in Pasadena, California and is an adjunct professor in the printmaking field at Azusa Pacific University.

Brian Blackham
Best Display of Art and First Place in Painting
www.brianblackham.com

Brian Blackham placed first in the show's largest category. He is a representational painter from Utah, where there is a tradition of expert American realistic painting. He stands out even there, as he does at the Beverly Hills Art Show. Here, he is sought after by many interior designers and independent collectors. Making art truly thrills him. "To slowly build the illusion of an object in space...feels like it's the most important thing on earth. The placement of the objects in the painting is incredibly important." Originally from Salt Lake City, he currently lives in Helper, Utah, a popular enclave for artists.

Award for Originality

Helen Allois

www.allois.com

Helen Allois' art is certainly original, as she is known for striking, surrealistic images of the roiling sea, eerie cat/human hybrids, and naturally, small aliens. She has illustrated collectible editions of works by Edgar Allen Poe and Ray Bradbury. Helen lives and works in Malibu, California.
