DESCRIPTION:

Although it has been altered, this two story Spanish Colonial Revival residence retains the essentials of the style. It is stuccoed, topped by a tiled hip roof, and asymmetrically massed with both one and two story wings. Shutters and iron balconets adorn the windows. Awnings cover the south three openings, which appear to be round-headed on the first floor. The entry has been altered and is now framed by a metal hood supported by slender posts. Other alterations may include some re-glazed openings.
