332 El Camino:

Similar in plan to its counterpart at 325 is this one and two story Spanish Colonial Revival residence with prominent arched window in the living room area. Other details of the structure which are characteristic of the style are the slightly pitched gabled roof covered with red tile, the smooth stucco exterior, arched openings in the colonnade and porte cochere, balcony with tiled hood, wrought iron balconet, and partially enclosed garden. A chimney with a cut out design at the top is also a feature of the home.
