DESCRIPTION:

Sited at an angle to the gentle curve of Alpine Drive, this two story Mediterranean residence is generously scaled. A shallowly pitched tile roof caps the stuccoed structure. The lower story is given more prominence than the upper by the placement of a stringcourse that separates the two levels. At the south end of the lower story, a three bay arcade springs from stylized Ionic columns and pilasters. Behind it, three round-headed openings are glazed. The entry is located near the north end of the facade and is flat-headed. Shuttered casement windows and a balustraded balcony appear on the upper story. A front patio is defined by low hedges which may cover the balustrade which is apparent in historic photographs. No major alterations are visible.
